

ABSTRACT

“OPTICAL SYSTEMS FOR LIQUID CRYSTAL PROJECTORS”

The present invention describes several embodiments of optical systems for the projection of images formed on reflective liquid crystal light valves. These light valves are capable of high resolution and very small sizes. The optical systems described are able to project these images with highly efficient utilization of light from an arc lamp source and are also very compact and easy to manufacture.